

ICHL22 Workshop
"Non-cladistic approaches to language genealogy"
organised by Alexandre François and Siva Kalyan

Friday 31 July 2015

9:50–10:20	Alex François (LACITO-CNRS) & Siva Kalyan (ANU) "Subgrouping without trees: why we need non-cladistic approaches to language genealogy" [introduction to the workshop]
10:20–10:50	Mark Ellison (ANU) & Luisa Miceli (UWA) "Language discontinua: How bilingual-led differentiation disrupts cladistic modelling"
10:50–11:20	Coffee break
11:20–11:50	Harald Hammarström (MPI) "Automatic detection of linkages and innovation-defined subgroups"
11:50–12:20	Luke Kelly (U. Oxford) "Lateral transfer on phylogenetic trees"
12:20–12:50	Annemarie Verkerk (U. Reading) "Detecting non-tree-like signal using multiple tree topologies"
12:50–13:20	Discussion: theory and methodology
13:20–14:30	Lunch
14:30–15:00	Lawrence Reid (U. Hawaii) "Philippine linkages and the position of the northern Mindoro languages"
15:00–15:30	Robert Ratcliffe (Tokyo U. of Foreign Studies) "Glottometric analysis of Semitic"
15:30–16:00	Mark W. Post (U. New England) "Sharing innovations across branches: A case study of the Tani subgroup of Tibeto-Burman"
16:00–16:30	Agnes Korn (U. Frankfurt) "Isoglosses and subdivisions of Iranian"
16:30–17:00	Coffee break
17:00–17:30	Siva Kalyan (ANU) & Alex François (LACITO-CNRS) "The structure of the Indo-European linkage"
17:30–18:00	Paul Heggarty (MPI-EVA) "Splits, shared innovations... and the real world. Overcoming the tree model distortion of language (pre)histories."
18:00–18:30	General discussion
